

Cubicle

—Daniel Yeow

You decide to push further into the forest, not knowing where you are but hoping to find some answers. You feel nature calling. Unfortunately, you are unable to find a tree satisfying your tastes, so you press on. It is with something of a sense of relief that you encounter a shining white box, which looks something like a large fridge. You open the door to find inside a spotless, rather fancy and apparently fully functional toilet. As you close the door and sit down inside, the walls seem to rotate in various ways, until strange letters appear out of nowhere. As you look harder, you see the hidden message encrypted in the rotations. So, that's who left the portaloo here! At least someone is on your side.
